SDG 1.4.3 Basic Services for all

Dawood University of Engineering and Technology (DUET) actively organizes training programs that contribute to improving access to basic services for all.

Microsoft Azure Security Training (20th July 2023):

DUET hosted a highly successful training session on Microsoft Azure Security, organized by the I.T Department, which was attended by students, faculty members, and industry professionals. This session covered critical topics such as cloud security, network security, application gateway protection, and Azure firewall, among others. By providing attendees with in-depth knowledge of cloud security, this training improves their ability to safeguard technological infrastructures, which are crucial for secure access to digital services, a vital aspect of modern-day basic services.

Workshops and Webinars (November and December 2023):

DUET hosted various online training sessions aimed at enhancing technical skills, which are key to improving service access and supporting industries that provide essential services. Some examples include:

Workshop Webinar (20th November 2023) by Engr. Dr. Dawood Idrees: A free online session that attracted a large number of participants, contributing to knowledge dissemination and skill enhancement.

MATLAB Programming for Engineers (23rd December 2023) by Engr. Dr. Ramesh Kumar: Another free training session that aims to develop programming skills among participants, fostering technical expertise that is essential for improving industrial and technological services.

Unlocking LATEX for Academic Writing (25th November 2023) by Dr. Arsalan Ansari: This free training session improved participants' ability to create academic content, enhancing their contributions to research and education, both vital services for societal advancement.
